VRV Air Conditioning Installation

The project was a design & Build concept working directly for the client. CCS designed, supplied and installed a Daikin VRV heat recovery air conditioning system to replace the existing perimeter heating and cooling system. All the pipe work had to be concealed in floor and wall voids. The fan coils were selected to fit within existing perimeter casings. The project was a very difficult installation in a very tight time scale, working in an occupied office environment. The project was delivered within program and on budget.
